

up, the Yuma Daily Examiner demanded his dismissal from project affairs and it very thoroughly convinced Secretary Lane that Everett Pat was a montebank and a four-flusher of the first and final degree. He was forthwith dismissed, and Dr. Elwood Mead, together with Chairman Fleming, finished the review of the cost of the California lands in Yuma project.

Realizing that these two men, because of their national and international reputation for probity and honesty, because of their well known friendship for the struggling land owner, the Yuma Daily Examiner renewed its efforts to secure their valuable services to review the cost of the Yuma project, so far as Arizona land was concerned.

Thees persistent, consistent and honest efforts are now rewarded!

Dr. Mead and Mr. Fleming will be with us on Monday. They will so conduct the hearings as to bring out all the facts pertaining to what should and what should not be charged to the project. It is confidently believed that they will recommend the elimination of millions of dollars from the cost as now charged. It is also confidently believed that their report will re-establish entire confidence all along the line; that land values will become settled; that their report will attract the favorable attention of the entire country to the superiority of Yuma project over any other government or private project in the entire United States.

It they do all this the Yuma Daily Examiner will consider itself repaid a thousand times over. If they do but half of it, Yuma county as a whole can well afford to call their names blessed. If they do any part of it, it will be just that much gained over the present chaotic condition brought about almost wholly because of the dictatorial policy pursued by the "extinguished manager" of the Yuma project, who, apparently, had as little regard for the prosperity of those who must ultimately pay the costs as if they had been so many Hot-tentots from the South Sea Islands.

With all elements of doubt removed as to the future policy of the government toward Yuma project, it should be and will be, in the common nature of things, the banner United States reclamation project; the garden spot of the world!

Yuma City can well afford to rejoice with Yuma valley and Gila valley over the great victory won for them by the Yuma Daily Examiner. It has made an honest fight, and is itself proud of its victory.

CLAMOR OF GADSDEN RESTORS DAILY MAIL

(By Gadsden Correspondent)

The change in the mail service between Yuma and Gadsden, announced last Saturday, by which the mail was to be carried only three times each week, has been annulled, and the old daily mail has been restored.

Gadsden people made a vigorous protest and the reclamation service, appreciating their progressive character, is willing to do all possible to aid them in building up their town and the surrounding country.

Work on the new Catholic church was begun yesterday.

Albert Mittlesteadt opened his restaurant this morning. Preparations for the erection of his hotel have been under way for several days and work was begun this morning. The building will have two stories; rooms for the guests up stairs; pool room, dining room and lobby on the lower floor.

The Sink Brokerage firm has just shipped its seventh car of alfalfa seed.

John Gandolfo, Sr., expects to remain in Yuma for the next four or five days, attending to important business matters. Mrs. Gandolfo is now at the Gandolfo ranch in the upper valley.
